Imagining new employment relations and new solidarities

Call for Papers Flexible Work Patterns Study Group

The Flexible Work Patterns Study Group will be meeting at the ILERA
15th European Congress in Amsterdam on Wednesday 19th June 2013

The group covers all aspects of flexible work including part-time work, timework, home working, shift work, flexible hours, compressed working week and other flexible work arrangements. The aim is to bring together scholars working in this area to network and discuss work in progress or recently completed. Abstracts of papers to be presented at the Study Group are invited on any aspects of flexible working. Work may be at the macro, organizational or individual level; or on empirical research that is country, region, sector or organization specific. We welcome reports on research in progress, as well as theoretical and methodological contributions.

Abstracts should be approximately 500 -1000 words. While the form might vary depending on research stage and type empirical work should typically cover the following.

- Paper title
- Name(s) of authors, institutional affiliation and contact details.
- Rationale /theoretical framework
- Research questions
- Method and data sources
- Findings
- Discussion /conclusion
- Implications for practice

Please send the abstract as a word file to Christine Edwards c.edwards@kingston.ac.uk by Friday 19th April 2013 at the latest.
